Abstract: French Missionary Dallet (1874) in his book described that there are many differences between China and Korea, and he indicated the thousand-character essay has been utilized both in Korea and in China for their children for Chinese characters. The thousand-character essay is called as Tcheonzamun(千字文) in Korea (Han, 1583). The main stream for the translation of Tcheonzamun has been on Chinese grammar (Thousand-Character Classic -千字文 Qiān zì wén). Recently, several researchers tried to translate Tcheonzamun poem on Korean grammar (Park et al., 2021; Kim, 2023). The present study will be done on Korean grammar. The thousand-character essay is called as Tcheonzamun in Korea (Han, 1583). There are three methods for the translation of Tcheonzamun poem on Korean grammar. The first one is the translation on the meaning of Chinese character on Tcheonzamun (Park et al., 2021). The second one is through Korean pronunciation of Chinese character (Kim, 2023). The third one, the present method for this study, is on the deleting method (Kim and Park, 2026; Park and Kim, in press). Usually, the deletion of the same part will be done between the different Chinese characters on the same line of the poem. The line is, for example, 241-244 資(Za) 父(Bu) 事(Sa) 君(Gun). However, there is the deletion of the similar part, and the deletion on the same Chinese character. The mark of [] shows the deletion of the same or the similar part on the same Chinese character. The mark of () indicates the deletion of similar part. Somewhat old Tcheonzamun book(Han, 1583) was used for this work. The range of this study is (Tcheonzamun 241st-256th). This work concerns the translation of Tcheonzamun poem. The title of this study is 'My husband! Are you going to love(心) me(your wife) constantly(|)? My dear husband! At first, you have to control(幸) yourself(ㅍ) well! (忠(Tchung) 則(Tchig) 盡(Zin) 命(Myeong)) (Tcheonzamun 241st-256th)'. There are two replications of each line. INTRODUCTION

French Missionary Dallet (1874) in his book described that there are many differences between China and Korea, and he indicated the thousand-character essay has been utilized both in Korea and in China for their children for Chinese characters. The thousand-character essay is called as Tcheonzamun(千字文) in Korea (Han, 1583). The main stream for the translation of Tcheonzamun has been on Chinese grammar (Thousand-Character Classic - 千字文 Qiān zì wén). Recently, several researchers tried to translate Tcheonzamun poem on Korean grammar (Park et al., 2021; Kim, 2023). The present study will be done on Korean grammar.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

The thousand-character essay is called as Tcheonzamun in Korea (Han, 1583). There are three methods for the translation of Tcheonzamun poem on Korean grammar. The first one is the translation on the meaning of Chinese character on Tcheonzamun (Park et al., 2021). The second one is through Korean pronunciation of Chinese character (Kim, 2023). The third one, the present method for this study, is on the deleting method (Kim and Park, 2026; Park and Kim, in press). Usually, the deletion of the same part will be done between the different Chinese characters on the same line of the poem. The line is, for example, 241-244 資(Za) 父(Bu) 事(Sa) 君(Gun). However, there is the deletion of the similar part, and the deletion on the same Chinese character. The mark of [] shows the deletion of the same or the similar part on the same Chinese character. The mark of () indicates the deletion of similar part. Somewhat old Tcheonzamun book (Han, 1583) was used for this work. The range of this study is (Tcheonzamun 241st-256th).

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The thousand-character essay is called as Tcheonzamun in Korea (Han, 1583). This work concerns the translation of Tcheonzamun poem of (Tcheonzamun 241st-256th). The title of this study is ‘My husband! Are you going to love(心) me(your wife) constantly(ト)? My dear husband! At first, you have to control(聿) yourself(ト) well! (忠(Tchung) 則(Tchig) 盡(Zin) 命(Myeong)) (Tcheonzamun 241st-256th)’. There are two replications of each line. It is in order to compare the deleted Chinese character with the original one.
